Detectives Trace 'Phi Bete' Key Missing 20 Years

Found Among Loot of 'Five Roses,' Key Belonged To Late Dr. Knowlton

The wheels of the gods that grind slowly and exceeding small have nothing on the Lower Merion Detective Bureau.

There is for example, the Case of The Missing Phi Beta Kappa Key. Originally the property of Dr. Stephen B. Knowlton, head of the English department at the Haverford School, the key had been missing 20 years. At any rate no member of Dr. Knowlton's family had seen it in that length of time.

Last week Lower Merion detectives, headed by Sgt. James Smyth, were engaged in the routine business of winding up the case of the Five Roses, teen-age Ardmore boys, who were committed to reform schools for a series of 19 robberies here.

Involved in the routine was the return of some hundred articles to their original owners: guns, blankets, costume jewelry, cigarette lighters and miscellaneous items.

Among the latter was a Phi Beta Kappa Key. The initials on the back, "S.B.K.," didn't match any of the names of the victims. There was a date, 1891, very dim, and the notation "Haverford College."

Matched Initials

Inquiry at Haverford College revealed that the only matching initials in the class of 1891 belonged to Stephen Brooks Knowlton, who later became head of the English department at the Haverford School and who lived with his family at 'Acorn House" for many years. But Dr. Knowlton was dead. No, the College didn't know anything about his family.

The persistent detectives turned to the telephone directory. Listed among other Knowltons was the Rev. S. Brooks Knowlton, pastor of Tully Memorial Church, in Sharon Hill.

When they called him, the surprised pastor told detectives that yes, he was the son of the Haverford School Knowlton; yes, his father had been an Phi Beta Kappa. His father's prized key, he added, had been missing for 20 years.

"Would you like to come in and reclaim it?" he was asked.

And so, Tuesday afternoon, Dr. Knowlton held in his hand the gold key, prized by scholars all over the world, which he had last seen two decades ago. It was still hanging on a gold chain which he also recognized. He couldn't remember the circumstances under which it disappeared. But it was, without question, the same key.

Still a mystery is the whereabouts of the key for twenty years and the way in which it came to be lodged in one of the Lower Merion homes robbed by the "Five Roses."

The detectives expect to have the answer to that one shortly.

BALA-CYNWYD MAN WIRES FROM WEST; ENDS MYSTERY

Reported missing in Portland, Ore., William Steele, 3d, 39, son of Dr. and Mrs. William Steele, 126 Maple Ave., Bala-Cynwyd was located in Seattle, Wash. He apparently did not realize he was he center of a short-lived "mystery."

A telegram to the Fidelity-Philadelphia Trust Co., revealed his location. The message indicated that Steele's automobile and belongings disappeared while he was seeking employment in Seattle. The car was picked up by Portland police, who then initiated the search for Steele.

Steele, an architect, was an ensign in the Navy. He graduated from the Yale University School of Architecture in 1935 and also attended the University of Pennsylvania.

Planned Plotting Of Church Road Brings Protest

140 Wynnewood Residents Appear at Commissioners Meeting Wednesday

Lower Merion township commissioners deferred action on a proposed plotting to widen Church Rd. from Lancaster Ave. to Montgomery Ave., after 140 residents of the Wynnewood area appeared to protest the action Wednesday night.

The proposed plotting, which also included an extension of Llanfair Rd. out to Lancaster Ave., would in effect provide an arterial highway between Lancaster and Montgomery Aves. However, no plans were on the books; commissioners explained that a "plotting" is nothing more than a proposal, and action may be deferred for many years.

Opposition to the proposal was led by M. Carton Dittman, Jr., of 253 Hathaway Lane, who explained that the plotting would leave a cloud on the titles of the properties abutting on the proposed highways, and that property values would decrease thereby. The widening would be effected through the MacFarlan estate, it was pointed out, thereby materially changing the property. Also directly affected would be the home of Col. Ian M Bethel, which stands in the way of the proposed thoroughfare.

Residents of Sibley Rd., Kent Rd. Hathaway Lane and Hathaway Circle spoke in opposition to the proposal, pointing out that their interest was in maintaining the highest possible type of suburban residential area, and that any further traffic would materially lower not only the property values but the pleasure of living in such an area.

One Suburban Square business man appeared, to say that although he would not speak in favor of the proposed plotting, it was generally understood that a new means of access to Montgomery Pike from Lancaster Ave. was absolutely necessary, and the problem must be studied by commissioners in the near future.

"Perhaps this plotting isn't the answer,' he told commissioners and the gathering, "but we all know an answer must be provided, and soon.'

Dittmann called for a rising vote in favor of abandoning the plotting, and the 140 rose as a man. To a question asking if anyone favored the plotting, no one responded.

The commissioners reported that a thorough study of the matter will be made before a decision is reached.

Bien Granted An Exception

May Open Parking Lot Under Board Ruling

General Wayne district will have its onion soup, the township board of adjustment decided Thursday night. The only thing necessary now is for Albert Bien, proprietor of a restaurant at 917 Montgomery Ave., to hire attendants for his parking lot.

Bien appealed to the Lower Merion commissioners several months ago for permission to erect a parking lot behind his establishment. The lot abutted on a C-1 commercial district and an R-5 residence district, and a certain amount of juggling with zoning ordinances had to be accomplished first.

After that a special exception had to be made under the provisions of Section 701, paragraph 3, of the zoning ordinance.

A hearing was set for Thursday, and at that time the Board of Adjustments agreed to the exception, providing the restaurant keeps attendants on the parking lot from 6 P. M. until closing time.

Now all that's needed is a good grade of Parmesan cheese to go with that soup.

Legion Women Elect Officers

Mrs. Edward Doughetry Named President of Auxiliary of B.-C. Post

Mrs. Edward B. Dougherty was elected president of the Women's Auxiliary of the Thomas D. Vandiver American Legion Post, of Bala-Cynwyd at a meeting of the group held Monday.

Other officers elected were: Mrs. William P. Watts, vice-president; Mrs. William Westcott, recording secretary; Mrs. Albert G. Metz, Jr., corresponding secretary; Mrs. Lawrence McDonough, treasurer, and Mrs. Eugene Keun, chaplain.

The newly elected officers were installed by Mrs. Anthony P. Cardamone, Eastern Director of American Legion Auvilliaries.

Mrs. Robert Town, who retired as president after a six-year term, was presented with a mahogany butler stand by the group.

Tea was served by Mrs. John Dart and Mrs. Margaret Taylor.

Henry Carr, Council Member, Finance Committee Chairman

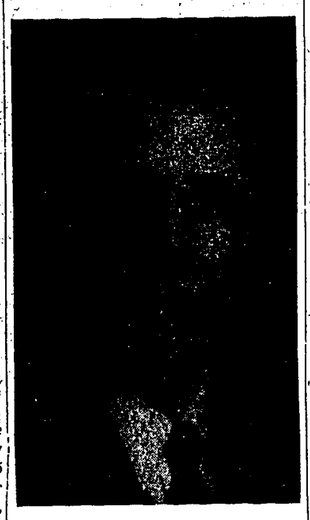

The attitude of Henry P. Carr, chairman of the finance committee and a member of the Narberth Borough Council for 10 years, is adequately expressed in his resume of the duties of Council:

"Whatever the public wants, it is our duty to give it!'

In line with this theory, he and his committee are preparing the budget for next year. It will be substantially higher than the last budget, he points out, for two reasons: building materials and labor costs have risen, and many of the reforms asked by the public during the war years are possible for the first time. This, naturally, means an increase in taxes.

Although the improvements asked last year would have brought the budget to $126,000, it was limited to $102,000. This was because the law limits the tax a borough may levy for general purposes to 15 mills. The addition is taken up for special purposes, such as health, lighting, library and so forth, and that gives you the 18 mills Narberth residents were paying last year.)

But new legislation makes it possible for the borough to go to court and ask a maximum of five mills in taxes—if they can show just cause for doing so, and Henry C. Fry, borough solicitor, is more than certain that he can prove just cause. Improvements asked by civic-minded residents include improvements to the playgrounds, additional toilet facilities, storage spaces, improved baseball diamonds, new grandstands, lights on the basketball courts, among many other things. Petitions asking these improvements will be heard by Council—and, since most of them have the same theory regarding

The resignation of Mrs. C. S. Zwart, assistant librarian, was also accepted by the board. Mrs. Grace Buney, of Conway Ave, Narberth, was appointed to fill the position.

PROPOSED APARTMENT TYPE

The Radnor Village Corporation says this is representative of the "garden type" apartment buildings it proposes to construct on the Main Line Golf Course grounds, if present zoning restrictions are changed.

Public Hearing Monday Night On Main Line Apartment Project

Radnor township officials expect an overflow attendance at the public hearing Monday night on a proposed zoning change to permit an apartment development on the Main Line Golf Course grounds.

Representatives of the Radnor Village Corporation, the developers, will come prepared with facts, figures and photographs to defend the project against the anticipated objections of owners of some nearby properties.

Because of the widespread interest in the project, Lower Merion and Haverford townships are expected to be represented, at least unofficially.

It is also believed that a number of veterans, anxious to get apartments when ready, may attend to plead the cause of the developers.

The public hearing will be held at the Radnor Township Building, Lancaster Ave., Wayne.

In a communication to the Board of Commissioners, D. G. Kelly, on behalf of the Radnor Village Corporation, submitted photographs representing the type of construction intended, and sought to show that such a development would be of greater benefit to the township than houses occupying the same tract.

Such garden-type apartments would be "an asset to the township,' Mr. Kelly wrote. "They will be beautiful in design, have spacious lawns that will be well kept by a special maintenance crew which will be in attendance at all times, and they will provide homes for the so-called 'white collar' worker, who has been so much deprived of housing in a good location which is within his means."

Mr. Kelly said the final number of apartments could not be determined until the topography and profile maps were completed, but estimated that the tract would accommodate 1400 to 1600 families without crowding.

He said garages and parking space would be provided for tenants and off the road parking for visitors. The developers would provide their own trash and garbage collection crews, disposing of the garbage from one or more central locations. Laundry facilities would be provided for all tenants, with outdoor drying permitted only at a stated inconspicuous location and at definite times.

Mr. Kelly said the prposed development would offend no one, even though they lived adjoining it, but pointed out that few people would be affected in any way. The Radnor Township School Board has purchased 80 acres to the South, the Pennsylvania Railroad runs to the North, the Philadelphia and Western Railway runs across the Southern border, and Lancaster Pike bisects the property.

If the tract were laid out in homes it would accommodate 670 individual homes, and the township would be confronted with ment, garbage collection, police

Plane Trip Is 'Fun' To Relative of Narberth Woman

A 3000 mile airplane trip at the age of 78 might seem quite an undertaking to most of us, but to Mrs. Ida Meyer, of Los Aangels, California, it was "fun."

Mrs. Meyer, aunt of Mrs. Miles Clipsham, of 103 Windsor Ave., Narberth, completed her trip last Friday at the Philadelphia airport, and reported that in spite of a five-hour delay in Chicago she had enjoyed her trip immensely.

A slight woman, 5 feet, 1 inch, weighing only 72 pounds, Mrs. Meyer met her niece for the first time at the airport. After spending the week-end in Narberth, she left for the seashore to visit other relatives.

Ardmore Athlete Dies of Polio

James Fleck, 18, Was Lower Merion Football Player

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Fleck, the boy was a star tackle on the 1945 football team at the Lower Merion High School. He had been employed this summer as a lifeguard at the Brookline Pool, and planned to enter the Swarthmore branch of Pennsylvania State College on an athletic scholarship this month.

Lower Merion township health officials, who had only one other case of polio to report this season, said that Fleck was stricken early last week. He was admitted to the hospital on Monday.

Survivors include his mother and father; a sister, Mrs. Thelma Farina, and an uncle, Daller R. Fleck, of Norristown. Funeral services were held privately on Monday.

Narberth Residents Want Free Bus Service to High Schools Resumed

Will Present Petition at Meeting Thursday; Board Pleads Lack of Funds

The problem of transportation for Narberth students who attend Lower Merion high schools was brought to the attention of borough residents this week by the circulation of a petition asking the School Board to resume free bus service.

Circulated by a group of residents anxious to see the resumption of school buses which were discontinued during the war, the petition had been signed by approximately 40 residents at the beginning of the week.

The petition asks the board to resume Red Arrow bus service throughout Narberth for the benefit of students attending Lower Merion Senior and Junior High Schools.

The bus service was stopped at the beginning of the war by the Red Arrow Company and has not been resumed since.

An official estimated the cost of the service to be approximately $4000 a year, which would have to be carried entirely by the Narberth School Board.

The official stated that it was improbable that the board would be able to handle this additional expense this year despite an increase in taxes.

"Higher tuition fees and salaries, coupled with costly repairs to the school building, will take care of the greater part of any additional money received from the higher taxes," he said.

Narberth parents, already burdened with increased living costs, complained that the tax should be able to take care of at least part of the bus service cost.

"We find it hard, with several school age children in the family, to pay a higher tax and transportation fares, too," on parent said.

Te petition will be presented to the board at a meeting to be held Thursday evening at 8 P. M., in the school building.

The national advisory board includes Lowell Thomas, Don McNeill, Jane Froman, Lanny Ross and Richard Maxwell, chairman.

The group which appears here is the Larkin Sisters, a quartette of singing radio and television artists, who will be accompanied by A. E. Withrow, former Army captain. The doors of the church are open to the public on this occasion.

On September 21, Dr. Cherry will have as his sermon topic, at the 11 A. M. services, "The Bible and the Constitution." The church choir, with Ruth Zimmerman as organist and director, will sing "Seek Ye the Lord." Mrs. Katherine Wiltbank will be soloist.

A buffet supper will be served in the late afternoon for club members and their friends. In case of inclement weather, the events will be scheduled the following day at the same hour and place.

Wilson and Co., representing the Provident Trust Company; trustee, and Marguerite Wood MacCoy has sold approximately 3½ acres of land situated on the southwesterly side of Lancaster Ave., adjoining the grounds of the Overbrook Golf Club, Overbrook. The land will be improved by the erection of a large private residence. The land was held for sale at $25,000.

FIRE DAMAGE ESTIMATED AT $500

Fire threatened the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis B. Taylor, of 1620 Montgomery Ave., Villanova, early last Thursday afternoon, when a blow-torch ignited the paint on the front porch, causing the fire to spread upward, over the front of the house.

The fire started when painters, using the blow-torch, were attempting to burn the paint from the outside of the house.

Volunteers, using an autohose checked the blaze until firemen from Bryn Mawr arrived on the scene, and put the fire out. Fire Marshal Harvey Benson estimated the damage at $500.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor formerly lived at 507 Montgomery Ave., Villanova.

Truck Overturns, Driver Uninjured

Blinded by Rain, Driver Swerves to Avoid Car

A Ford truck overturned on the Lancaster Pike during Monday afternoon's driving rain, damaging the front and top. The driver escaped uninjured.

John Erskine, of 2301 Grays Ferry Rd., Philadelphia, told Lower Merion policeman H. L. Barney that he was driving each on Lancaster Pike. Another car, also going east, pulled in front of him just west of Bowman Ave., and to avoid hitting the car he swerved. The truck skidded across the highway and smashed into a telegraph pole, overturning.

Damage was estimated at $300.

Urge Enforcing Of Fishing Law

L. M. Sport Group Objects to Ocean Law Breakers

Declaring that commercial fishermen have ignored the federal law prohibiting netting and dragging of fish within three miles of the shore, the Lower Merion Rod and Gun Club, at a recent meeting, voted to urge Pennsylvania Senators Edward Martin and J. Francis Meyers to put an end to the practice.

Surf committee chairman John A. Miller, of Narberth, in a report to the Board of Directors of the Club, stated that salt water fishing within the past two years, especially along the New Jersey coast, has been very poor.

During the discussion which followed, it was alleged that, although present federal laws prohibit commercial netting and dragging of fish within three miles of the shore, commercial fishermen have continued to fish close to the shore, a practice that was begun as a war emergency, but which has not been discontinued since the close of the war.

This practice, it was observed, greatly decreases he numbert of fish along the shore for the surfcaster.

CHOOSING A CAREER:

Accounting and Secretarial Work

By J. M. STERN
Director, Columbia Institute

Betty Rhodes, director of the Columbia Institute Charm School, puts two future "perfect secretaries" through their paces. Good posture is imperative, says Miss Rhodes, and marching around with a book balanced on your head is a splendid posture exercise.

Secretarial and accounting careers are well worth pursuing.

A thoroughly trained secretary, for instance, can find her work very interesting. And she can be proud of a job well done. Secretarial work isn't all nose in the typewriter and shorthand book. Quite the contrary. It is a trustworthy position, and a competent secretary can relieve a busy executive of many minor details.

The understaking of learning to be a good secretary, can be just as interesting as the job which follows.

Bosses like to have not only efficiency, but smart and correct appearance. The correct dress, the proper make-up, the right hair-do, a comfortable posture and good, neat appearance while taking dictation... all this means something to the man or woman for whom a secretary is working.

Consequently, a successful secretary actually is a successful woman. And she can pride herself upon it.

In acounting work, a man's life is not filled solely with rows and rows of figures. An accounting career actually brings with it a study of government, law, taxes and a background in human relations.

In practical business life, a well rounded accountant is a decided asset to a concern. An astute business man always will consult his accountant before making any major changes in his business structure. A firm may save thousands of dollars merely by following the advice of a man who knows the accounting profession thoroughly and many a large organization recognizes this fact. Today, when the tax structure is so complicated and important to our daily lives, an employee or consultant who is well versed in this subject can be a highly valued co-worker.

Thus, it is obvious that careers as a secretary or an acountant are not just ordinary, drab jobs when properly approached.

CHOOSING A CAREER:

Secretary vs. Stenographer

By ANNA W. THOMPSON
Principal of the Philadelphia Secretarial School

ANNA W. THOMPSON

Do you know the difference between a stenographer and a secretary? Although these words are often confused, there is actually a vast difference.

A private secretary, in the true sense, is a minor executive and assumes considerable responsibility. Her duties are diversified and interesting. She relieves her employer of the handling of many matters that would otherwise consume much of his valuable time, and she writes a great deal of the

She makes (and reminds him of)

She makes (and reminds him of) business appointments; she arranges the itineraries for his business trips—making hotel, train, airplane, and boat reervations. She often handles his personal banking. She is thoroughly trustworthy and holds all business confidences in strict secrecy. She is pleasant and diplomatic in greeting his office callers.

This is especially important, because most men who have "private" secretaries are the higher officials of their respective organizations, and most of their contacts are with men of camparable caliber.

For these services the busy executive is sincerely grateful, and is willing to pay a very attractive salary, because he is fully aware of the difference between a stenographer and a "secretary."

CHOOSING A CAREER:

The Real Estate Business

By J. MAXWELL RUSSELL
Dean of North Philadelphia Realty Board School

Practically every person must choose a vocation. The first and most obvious reason for doing so is the necessity for earning a living. The second reason is that even if there is no necessity for work, because a human being is a restless creature, he must be continually doing something. And then again, man is a creative creature. He has devised and put into use, things which for lack of a better term are called occupations.

The real estate profession offers many different types of occupations for creative employment. One may be engaged in the sales field; another may choose maintenance work—preserving existing buildings or the repair and rehabilitation of properties; another may be interested in conveyancing, while still another may be interested in mortgage loans which represents a vast field in itself; another may adopt appraising as a profession.

The human need for betterment, the ambition of an individual to improve himself can be best satisfied in what is known as evening schools. Opportunity is afforded to those who have a definite objective in a particular calling to acquire in a concentrated form the exact type of instruction that is needed to fit them to do a particular job.

The school is first designed to meet the needs of the broker. It is essential, if the broker wishes to protect himself and compete with others acquiring specialized training, to have a good working knowledge of all phases of the real estate business. The changes have been coming so quickly during the last several years that a broker needs to keep abreast of his opportunities.

Many salesmen who have been and now are active in real estate are only familiar with one or two phases of the business. The experienced real estate operator, even though he may be specializing, must have the rudiments of all the several branches of real estate at his finger tips so that he can expand in the organization. The office employes are the future conveyancers, appraisers, salesmen and brokers of tomorrow. To better themselves and to make them more valuable to their employer, a course in real estate plus the practical experience acquired in the office go hand in hand with their future development.

To those who are inexperienced and desire to enter the real estate field, there never has been a better opportunity than now to enter the field. The course is also especially valuable to those preparing for the real estate broker's examination conducted by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, as it is expressly designed towards this end. It is much easier to prepare for the examination under instruction than to attempt to acquire the necessary knowledge in some other manner.

ST. JOSEPH'S COLLEGE STARTS 97TH YEAR

When classes started at Saint Joseph's College on Monday, September 15, it marked the beginning of the 97th year of the College history. It was on September 15, 1851, that the original class of 30 students assembled in the parish house of old Saint Joseph's Church in Willing's Alley, where a number of rooms had been set aside as classrooms. This year there will be over 500 Freshman students enrolled, and the total student body will be over 1500.

The Evening School also began classes on September 15 at the City Line address.

The Saint Joseph's College Institute of Industrial Relations at 18th and Thompson Sts., Philadelphia, also began classes on October 6.

Miss Patricia Moore Is Model, Singer; Conducts Charm School

Miss Patricia Moore, a director of the Main Line School of Charm, recalls as one of her biggest thrills the night when she won an audition and appeared as guest soloist with the Pennsylvania Symphony Orchestra.

Such honors were not entirely strange to the tall, slender brunette, however, when she was only 16 she sang two solo numbers before a capacity audience in the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel, in Philadelphia, accompanied by Meyer Davis and his orchestra. Since those days she has sung at many important public functions. During the war she gave concerts for the Officers Club of Philadelphia, the USO antd the Valley Forge Military Hospital.

Recently she added to her laurels by appearing on a duo-pianist program for the Philco Television Company.

Miss Moore was born in Ardmore, and has spent most of her life here. Sprinkled throughout her 12 years of private schooling were trips through Europe, where she acquired proficiency in several languages. She is qualified to sing in both French and Italian.

Traveling extensively in the United States, Miss Moore remembers as highlights in her career, excursions to Bermuda and Nova Scotia which she took during vacations.

During her seven years as a professional model, Miss Moore has appeared in fashion shows given by all of Philadelphia's major department stores and smart apparel shops. She has posed for all the big daily newspapers, in their fashion lay-outs, and besides that has modeled for various studios whose work has appeared in national magazines.

Besides directing the Main Line School of Charm, housed in "Whitehall," Haverford, Miss Moore is in charge of the model department of H. Armstrong Roberts, Commercial Photographic Studios.

OPTIMISTS HEAR TALK ON BOWLING TUESDAY

Andrew J. Nicholes spoke on bowling at the meeting of the Optimist Club of Ardmore, at the Llanerch Country Club on September 16.

Dr. James C. Much, of Much Laboratories at 69th Street, was announced as the speaker for the next meeting. His topic will be "The Doping of Race Horses and How to Detect It." Dr. J. Clayton Undercofler, of Ardmore, president, presided.

many problems of road improve-protection, etc., that would not arise with an apartment development, Mr. Kelly said.

He expressed the opinion that because of the location of the property, a change in its zoning would not of necessity lead to similar changes for other large tracts nearby.

"With the number of apartments we intend to construct, it would be unlikely that some one else would want to construct more apartments," he said.

NARBERTH'S ANNIVERSARY SECTION

Best Borough Yet, Says Carr

their duty as Mr. Carr has, they are almost certain to gain approval.

With the help of Mrs. Ruth Grace, Borough secretary, Mr. Carr examines all expenditures, compares them with other years, and attempts to keep them within the budget limitations. To his job as finance chairman, which he has held since 1939, he brings years of experience in the financial world.

Born in Ireland, he came here 30 years ago. He served as assistant to the president of the American Electric Power Company, a position which made him familiar with every prominent banker in the United States. When the Company was sold to American Gas and Electric, which worked out of New York, Carr decided he preferred the Philadelphia area, and opened offices for Laird, Bissell and Meeds, member of the New York Stock Echange. He was office manager for Laird, Bissell for 10 years, after which he incorporated the company of Carr, O'Brien Co., at 1500 Walnut St., Philadelphia. He is president of the organization.

On the personal side, Mr. Carr has lived in Narberth 30 years—at 415 North Narberth Ave. His family includes one son, one daughter and six grandchildren. He once played rugby football and soccer in the British Isles, but is intensely proud of the brand of football his son George played for the University of Pennsylvania. He also played professional soccer for the Paterson Blues, in New Jersey. An ardent member of the choral society of Narberth, when that was a flourishing and very popular organibation, he still admits to a good tenor when the occasion requires.

His hobby? Narberth Borough. He appears at the borough hall every morning (and laughingly admits that his colleagues accuse him of spending more time on the job of councilman than in his business). He believes that good government results only when the responsible, intelligent members of a community take an active interest in their local government.

"We have the finest Borough council we have ever had, today," he insists. "All of the members are men of affairs who conduct the business of local government as though they were members of the board of directors of a $100,000 corporation. There is no element of graft or corruption present; there is unanimity of thought and action in all matters affecting the public welfare; there is a high type of service, performed by men who could not be bought for any price. Every man is fulfilling his job 100 percent.' He turned to Mrs. Grace for confirmation, and concluded:

"The borough of Narberth and its people are very fortunate indeed to have men of such high caliber handling their affairs."

St. Margaret's, Laurentians in Mont-Del Battle

While St. Margaret's, of Narberth, and St. Laurence, of Highland Park, fought to a standstill in a pair of Mont-Del League preliminary playoff games played over the weekend, the Good Counsel team, of Bryn Mawr, took a one-game lead over St. Philomena in the struggle for the other bracket.

St. Laurence won a 12-3 decision at Drexel Hill Saturday, but St. Margaret's rallied Sunday at the borouih to win out, 7-4, to force the series into a third game. This decisive battle will be staged tomorrow at Drexel Hill, with the winner moving into the championship finals.

Good Counsel was forced to play two games over last weekend. The first was an 11-10 slugfest with St. Philomena in a regular season game which created a deadlock for fourth place. The Bryn Mawr team then faced St. Philomena again on Sunday and came off with a 5-3 verdict in the first game of the other bracket in the preliminary series.

St. Margaret's could do nothing with Bob Baker in that Saturday game with St. Laurence. The Highland Park star limited the losers to four hits, while Nick Cappelli, brought in from short to pitch for the Borough nine, was solved for 11 safeties. The game was close until the seventh, when the home team shoved over nine runs to turn the affair into a massacre. O'Brien opened the frame with a home run.

Ray Desert was the hero of the two Good Counsel victories. Desert came in as relief for Bob Freeman and twice halted the Lansdowne club in the late frames to protect a slim lead. Johnny Morning's home run with the bases crammed in the fifth was the big blow for the winners.

L. Merion High, Northeast in 1st Night Game

Northeast High, city scholastic champion last year, will oppose Lower Merion High's footballers in the season's opener for both teams Friday night at Pennypacker Field, Ardmore.

All indications point to a sellout crowd as Lower Merion prepares to play its first night game in history. Temporary stands have been erected at either end of the field and it is believed every seat will be sold before opening kickoff.

Lower Merion's starting lineup will include eight players who won letters last year, according to Coach Dick Mattis. The newcomers include Tom Davis, quarterback; Bob Callahan, center, and Bill Moran, tackle.

Other starters will include Bill Buck and Bill Ryder at end; Jim Barr, tackle; Mike Venezia and Don Shaver, the extra-point producer, guards; Capt. Len Shephard and Harry Barton, halfbacks, and Graham Hopper, fullback.

Also scheduled to see plenty of action are Dick Oliver, Barton's understudy; Charlie Wilson, who will relieve Len Shephard; Quarterback Bill Galihue, from Ardmore Junior High; Tackle Joe Imes, and Al Iannera, guard.

Lower Merion scrimmaged Roman Catholic High last Friday and, according to Mattis, "was badly run over" by the Catholic Leaguers. Previously, the Ardmore Aces had "held their own" with West Catholic and got a bit the better of it against Episcopal Academy.

Northeast, coached by Gus Geiges, who lives in South Ardmore, always turns out a rough, big team. The Archives, according to all reports, are bigger than ever this year.

When Villanova meets San Francisco in its final game in November, it will mark the first visit of a Wildcat tearm to the Pacific Coast since 1937. Villanova had its last unbeaten football team that same season. Three members of that unbeaten eleven are now on the Main Line coaching staff.

Art Ramo, Villanova backfield coach, believes the Wildcats' Andy Gordon will rate as one of the top T-formation quarterbacks in the East this fall. Gordon completed 28 of 55 passes in 1946, including six touchdown tosses.
